FOREWORD

This publication contains a series of listings of collective agreements of 500 or more workers in all industrial sectors due to expire in 1985. The information is presented in four sections.

The first section identifies agreements alphabetically by employer or employer association; the second section lists contracts by month of expiry/province/industry; the third section identifies agreements by industry/employer; the fourth section provides a tabulation summary of expiring collective agreements 1985 and 1984 (Revised). Information in the listings also includes the location of the bargaining unit, the name of the union and its affiliation and the number of employees covered by the agreement. Construction industry collective agreements of 500 or more workers are now identified under the regular listings.

This report is based on information available as of November 30, 1984, from the department's collective agreement library. It does not include bargaining situations carried over from 1984 or newly certified bargaining units. Also excluded are those agreements which are currently being negotiated and will have 1985 expiry dates. A listing of these will be published in the May 1985 issue of the Collective Bargaining Review. (The May 1984 Review listed 58 such agreements for the bargaining year 1984 in all industries).

The Calendar was prepared in the Collective Bargaining Division, Labour Data Branch of Labour Canada. Inquiries should be directed to the Division at telephone (819) 997-3890.

M. Valiquette,
Director,
Labour Data Branch.

SUMMARY OF KEY NEGOTIATIONS IN 1985

The 1985 Bargaining Calendar is the lightest on record in a ten year period. Some 325 major agreements (51 Federal) of 500 or more employees are expiring in the coming year. Some 874,000 employees are covered by these agreements. The total universe of major agreements covers 2,318,315 workers.

There are approximately an additional 370 contracts (840,000 workers) that are in negotiations or will expire before the end of 1984. Some of these may be carried into the new year. There are also 12 major agreements involving 34,215 employees that provide for the reopening of negotiations in 1985 over specified clauses, generally wages. The graphs which follow on pages X and XI indicate expiring agreements for 1985 and revised data for 1984.

By jurisdiction, the majority of expiring agreements will occur in Ontario (84 agreements covering 104,625 employees), Quebec (76 agreements covering 377,120 employees) and the Federal Jurisdiction, (28 agreements under the Canada Labour Code covering 77,425 employees and 23 public service covering 81,660 employees). Together, the 211 expiring agreements under these jurisdictions cover 640,830 employees or 73 percent of employees with agreements expiring in 1985.

Agreements in the public sector account for 621,710 employees or 71 percent of all employees whose agreements expire during the year. Agreement expiries are clustered around December (23%), March/April (21%) and June (12%).

Expiries by Industry

In Forestry, 1985 is an off-year for negotiations as most of the collective agreements were re-negotiated in 1984. Only two logging agreements (1,060 workers) compared with nine in 1984 will expire in the spring (New Brunswick) and summer (Manitoba) of 1985, and will likely be influenced by the patterns established in the 1984 settlements.

In Mines, Quarries and Oil Wells, about 23,000 workers covered by thirteen collective agreements will be negotiating during the year. The two agreements with Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting in Manitoba, under Federal jurisdiction, expire in September. Three agreements covering 2,660 employees are located in the Quebec Asbestos Industry. One agreement in Sudbury between Inco and its 10,000 Steelworkers terminates in May and wage increases will likely hinge on the level of world demand for nickel.

Eighty-six major contracts covering close to 107,000 workers are expiring in Manufacturing in 1985. The Textile and Clothing industry constitutes the single largest group with 20,335 employees of which 12,000 are in the Montreal Clothing industry. Ten agreements in the Automobile, Farm Machinery and Parts Industry also expire. In Ontario, an agreement between the Auto Workers and Chrysler Canada (9,060 workers) terminates October 15. The strength in automobile sales across North America and the settlements at General Motors of Canada Limited and Ford Motor of Canada Limited in 1984 will no doubt impact on negotiations. Massey Ferguson Industries (4,300 workers) in Ontario has an agreement with the Auto Workers expiring on September 1. Poor economic conditions in the agricultural implement industry may have a significant bearing on the outcome of negotiations.

In the Electronics industry, eleven contracts with 14,715 workers, mainly in Ontario and Quebec, expire during the year. Five of these agreements, terminating in February, involve Northern Telecom and 10,590 employees in various unions. Another important agreement includes one in British Columbia between Cominco and 4,140 Steelworkers expiring on April 30. The trend towards low wage increases in Alberta and British Columbia experienced during 1984 may be a consideration in discussions towards a settlement.

Other important agreement expiries include one between Canadair Limited and its 3,000 Machinists on June 28, and between Sidbec-Dosco and 3,445 Steelworkers on January 31. In the Printing industry, the agreement between the Council of Printing Industries and 3,150 employees represented by various unions also expires in 1985.

In the Construction sector, 1985 is an off-year for negotiations although 17 contracts (23,250 workers) will expire in February or April. Four of these contracts (6,250 employees), under Federal jurisdiction, will be negotiated between the Pipe Line Contractors Association of Canada and various unions. Three agreements (6,500 workers) between the British Columbia Road Builders Association and various unions expire on February 28. Also, four contracts (5,400 employees) between the Newfoundland Construction Labour Relations Association and various unions terminate on April 30.

A total of 41 expiries will occur in Transportation, Communication and Other Utilities covering 120,320 workers, approximately sixty percent of which are under Federal jurisdiction. Most of the workers are covered by a few large bargainng situations. In the Federal jurisdictions, an agreement between Canada Post and 21,000 employees represented by the Letter Carriers Union of Canada terminates on December 31. Other major agreements include an agreement with 18,000 Bell Canada employees expiring on December 16; a contract with 7,990 Air Canada employees on March 28; and seven agreements with 8,635 Canadian Broadcasting Corporation employees during various months. Under Provincial jurisdictions, approximately fifty percent of the workers are represented by the Canadian Union of Public Employees in contracts with Ontario Hydro (March 31; 15,435 employees) and the Quebec Hydro Electric Commission (December 25; 11,100 employees).

In the Trade sector, eighteen contracts with 36,670 workers are up for renegotiation in 1985. Retail food (11 agreements) represents the largest group with 29,225 employees. The principal expiries will occur in Quebec (10,265 workers), Manitoba (3,320 workers), Saskatchewan (2,200 workers) and British Columbia (12,590 workers) and will mainly involve Steinberg, Canada Safeway and the British Columbia Food Industry Labour Relations Council and various locals of the United Food and Commercial Workers International Union.

In the Finance and Insurance sector, there are two agreements: 1,130 employees are covered by an agreement with the Montreal City and District Savings Bank and 1,070 employees have an expiring agreement with Saskatchewan Government Insurance.

In Community, Business and Personal Services almost 350,000 (84 agreements) employees in both the education and health sectors will return to the bargaining table in 1985. The heaviest concentration of employees will be in Quebec (249,345), Alberta (23,160) and British Columbia (23,600).

In Public Administration, agreements covering 73,405 employees in the Federal Public Service are expiring in 1985. Major groups include the programme administration (22,560 employees), secretarial and typing (11,700 employees), general services (11,065 employees) and administration services (6,935 employees). Of the 10 major agreements (94,605 employees) in the provincial public service sector, bargaining will take place mainly in Quebec (49,140 employees) and British Columbia (39,935 employees). Major expiries in Municipal Administration include agreements covering 5,810 Montreal inside employees, 2,600 Calgary Fire Fighters and outside workers, 6,700 Edmonton police, clerical and outside employees and 7,200 Vancouver and Victoria City inside and outside workers. Many of the agreements in Public Administration will be negotiated under budgetary guidelines in 1985 following the more stricter legislative restrictions of the past year.
